Neumann Homes sues Village of Antioch

By JULIE MURPHY Staff Reporter

"We regret ending up in the situation we are in," said Ken Neumann, president of Neumann Homes, in confirming that the development company is suing the Village of Antioch. "We've been zoned and titled and have met or exceeded all that has been asked of us, and we are entitled to due process."

The suit that was filed on Jan. 29 lists Bill and Peter Anest, and Andrew Lynch, who is the independent executor of the Homer White estate, as well as Neumann Homes, Inc. as the plaintiffs against the village of Antioch. According to Neumann, the village has asked for an extension. until March 12 to respond to the suit against it.

The village attorney, who is currently out of town on vacation, was authorized to defend the village by the board of directors in the executive session following the Feb. 5 regular meeting. Mayor Marilyn Shineflug said, "It has to do with timing. They feel the village has acted too slowly."

In short, the suit contends that the village has not abided by provisions of the settlement agreement it entered into on Oct. 7, 1992 with Bill and Peter Anest to dismiss the disconnection case (to de-annex the property from the village). According to the lawsuit under paragraph 8 the provision states that the village "shall have ninety days for action on a proposed Preliminary Plan of a Planned Development..."

Additionally, the lawsuit says, "The Settlement Agreement provides that approval of a development plan shall not be unreasonably withheld and it will be consistent with actions taken relative to other developments in the Village and the Village's review of the proposed planned development shall not be 'used to reduce gross residential density or the total number of dwelling units' that are approved elsewhere in the Settlement Agreement."

The complaint states that on July 11, 1994, the village passed Ordinance No. 94-7-22 consenting to the establishment by Lake County of a special service area (SSA) that included the Neumann properties, and that on Nov. 14, 1994 Kenneth Glick committed to Lake County to grant any easements necessary to enable the sewer main to be constructed across the property. This special service area would connect to the Northeast Sewerage System. Since 1995, Bill and Peter Anest have. paid $222,400 per year in SSA taxes to the county and the estate of Homer White has paid $9,400 per year.

According to the lawsuit a series of events took place when the Lake County Forest Preserve Dist. announced the proposed acquisition of the Glick property. Neumann requested that the district instruct Glick to execute the grant of easement that had been presented by the village. The Forest Preserve Dist, responded that Glick was not authorized to grant the easement, and that the developer would have to wait until after the district had acquired the Glick property to renew its request for a sanitary sewer easement. Neumann asked Lake County to intercede to have the easement recorded, but it has not.

The owners of the Neumann properties remain obligated to the SSA to pay special taxes to Lake

The lawsuit states that Neumann offered to sell, at cost, about 200 acres of the Anest property to the Forest Preserve Dist. in exchange for an easement over the Glick property and support for Neumann's develop-

Because this offer was pending on Sept. 21, 2000, the date of the continued Plan Commission public hearing held at Antioch Community High School, Neumann wrote a letter of that same date to the chairman of the combined planning and zoning board requesting that the hearing be continued to the next appropriate date. In the lawsuit, Neumann said he requested to address the public to explain the reason for the request of the continuance, but was denied the opportunity.

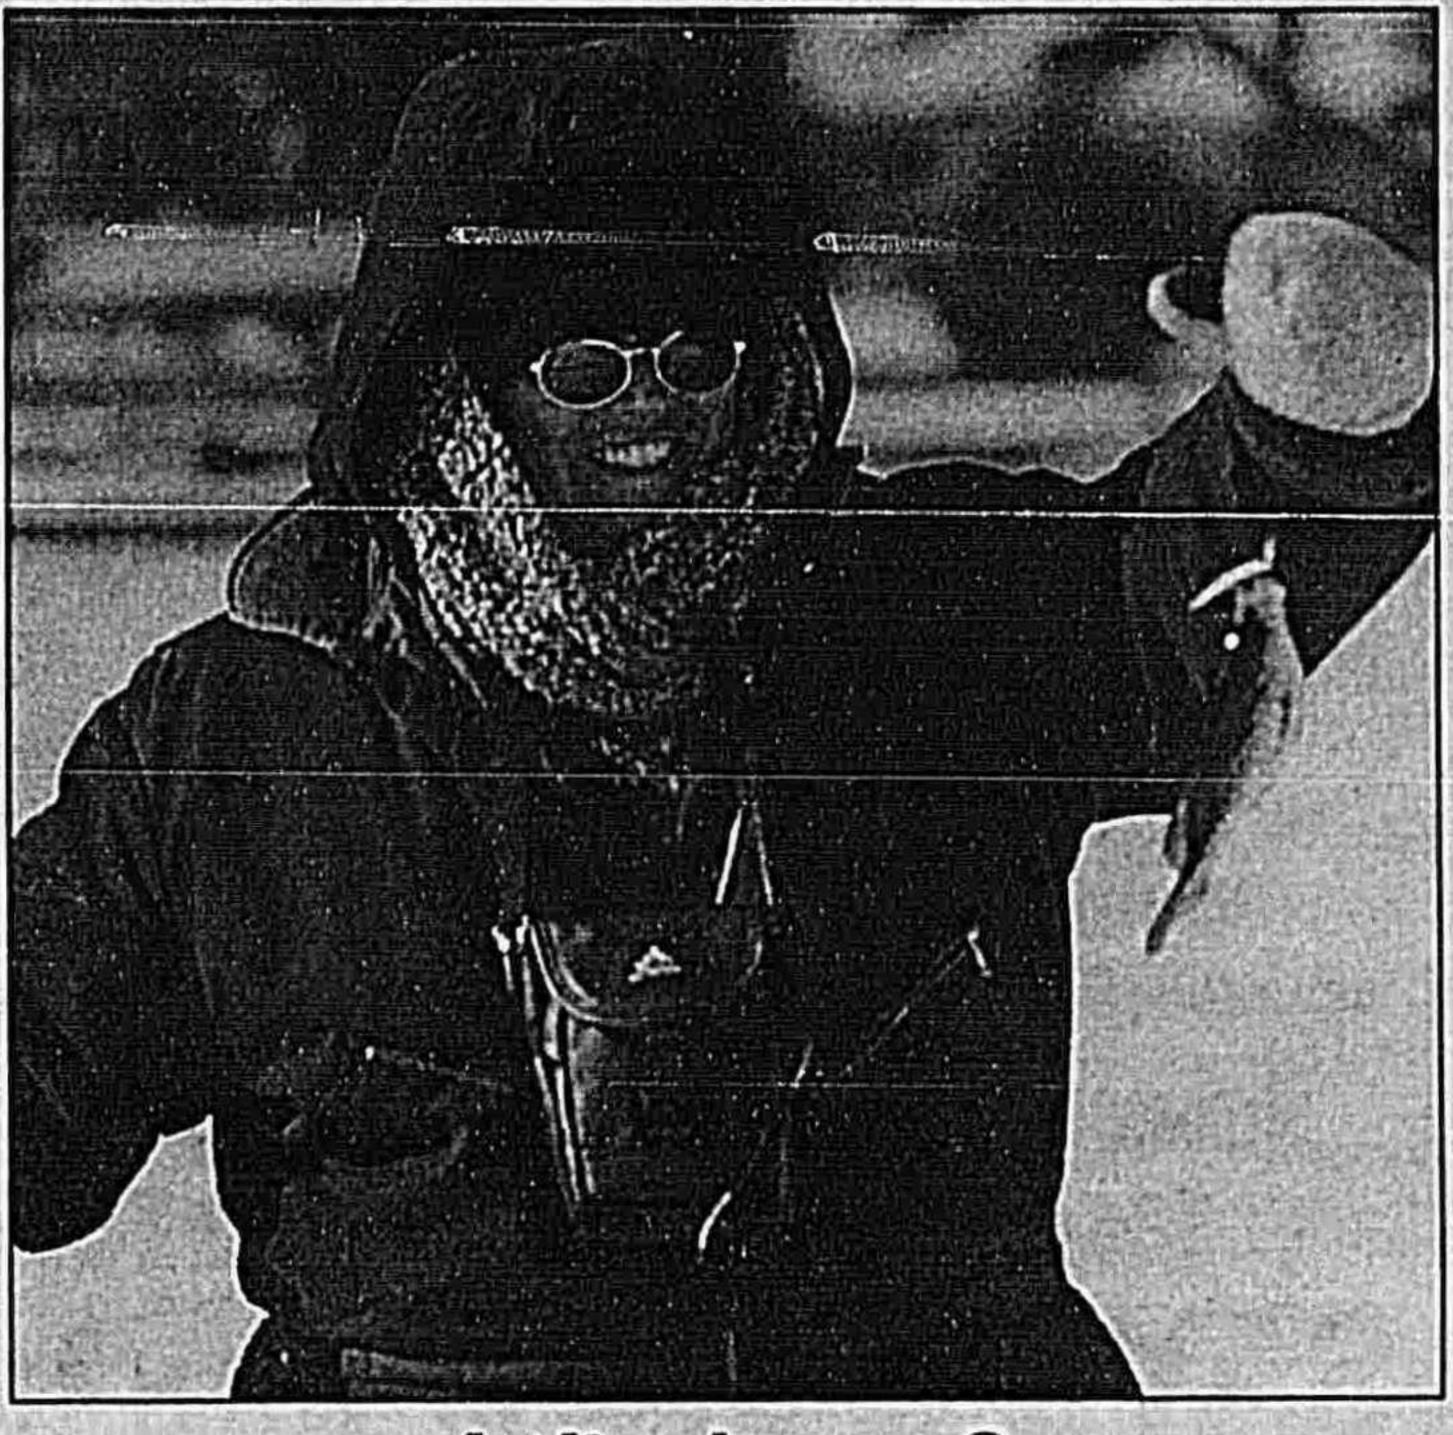

The combined planning and zoning board went into executive session upon opening the public hearing, and approved a motion to grant the continuance upon return stating it would not be continued until the sewer and water easement issue had been resolved (Deercrest filed its lawsuit against Glick, Lake County and the Village of Antioch on Sept. 6, 2000).

Neumann's suit contends that the village then informed him that to resolve the sanitary sewer issue, either the easement over the Glick property would have to be granted to the village, or another route for the have to be made available.

The suit claims that in November of 2000, Neumann obtained sanitary sewer and water easements over the Abbott property, the Vrakus property and the Doolittle property that would enable him to connect the Neumann properties to the existing Northeast Sewerage System.

Neumann then proposed the development of a separate water system to serve the property, as the

Fire brings out a dozen fire departments

Damage is estimated at $100,000

By JULIE MURPHY Staff Reporter

A labor-intensive fire on the morning of Feb. 12 on a rural farm along Rte. 173 in unincorporated Antioch brought out firefighters from a dozen nearby departments to assist the Antioch Fire Dept. in keeping the blaze under control. There were no injuries, and the damage was limited to one building.

According to Chris Lienhardt, information officer for the Antioch Fire Dept., the first engine company approaching the scene could see a large body of fire in the storage building on the farm, and requested additional assistance using the Mutual Aid Box Alarm System (MABAS): The second alarm level brought response from Fox Lake, Grayslake, Gurnee, Lake Villa, Newport, Round Lake, Spring Grove and Zion departments in Illinois and from Bristol, Salem, Trevor and Wilmot departments in Wisconsin.

Antioch fire chief Dennis Volling said, "The first arriving engine company did a nice job in not only assessing the additional needs for this call, but also did a great job in preventing the fire from spreading to the surrounding buildings."

"This is an area without hydrants so we needed to assure proper water supply to support the fire suppression efforts, which we were able to accomplish by using the MABAS system," added Volling. "This is just the type of incident that it was designed for."

Lienhardt said, "We respond to other towns and they respond to us. We don't have 11 tankers, nor should we or any other town."

The fire was brought under control within 45 minutes, and firefighters stayed on the scene another two hours to make sure all of the hot spots were out. The outbuilding-type barn housed farm implements such as tractors and combines, not livestock. Lienhardt said there was an apartment above, but it was unoccupied at the time of the fire.

The unofficial loss estimate is $100,000, and the cause is still under investigation.

A family that travels together probably shouldn't

't is not every day that you get to spend an entire seven-day vacation with 43 of your nearest and dearest relatives, and most of you are probably thinking—why in the world would you even want to. That was my husband's point exactly, especially given the fact that it was my side of the family that we are dealing with here. It all started harmlessly enough when we were discussing our annual winter family reunion at the annual summer family reunion. Your thought would be: "why would you want to get together with a bunch of relatives more than once every five years in the first place. Precisely Mr. Pringle's sentiments. But it is something all the kids just love and well, we all know the things we do for our kids.

The conversation started out with our usual weekend in the Wisconsin Dells, and when I came back from the bathroom, it had escalated to a seven-day Disney World Cruise adventure. I was gone maybe four minutes, but Wisconsin was out, and Disney was in.

The discussion was over, the travel agent was contacted, credit card numbers were exchanged and our adventure was booked— Day I began at 5:30 in the morning with the limo getting stuck in our driveway on our way to the airport. After much rocking, spinning tires, and un-Disney like language being spewed from the front seat, the journey continued, but not without incident. We hadn't even gotten to the expressway, when one of the clan members was frantically searching the back of the limo for a vomit bag. The kids started making disgusting noises and the already frazzled limo driver set the cruise on 110 mph. The next 30 minutes was spent watching the blurred scenery race by and praying we would get to the airport because the car was not equipped with the requested bag. Pulling up to the airport, the sick occupant, in her search for the bathroom, plowed over a skycap, who, shaken buy unharmed, then took great pleasure in informing us that our flight was delayed until 9 a.m.

Ever try to occupy 17 children for three hours in an airport? As an intimidation ploy, airport personnel started patrolling the hallways near our gate with the bomb-sniffing dogs. Once the boarding process began, our worst fears were confirmed when the sleep deprived parents, who had been unsuccessfully trying to calm their screaming baby in the airport holding area for the last hour, picked up a massive diaper bag, a stroller and an undisclosed amount of baby paraphernalia and headed towards the plane's door. Any chance of catching a few winks to make up for the 4 a.m. wake-up call was just shot to hell.

Finally, after we were all buckled in with our seats in the upright position, and taxiing down the runway, the stewardess told us the airline had made a mistake and only ordered four happy meals instead of the needed five. Guess who was sitting in the seat in front of the kicking, screaming, tantrum throwing child who was out a happy meal toy. Not one to get discouraged too quickly, even I had to admit this didn't look too promising—it was going to be a long seven days.

Next week: our adventured continued to be anything but magical at The Magic Kingdom—And so goes another "Jingle from Pringle."

Readers with information for "Jingle" from Pringle" should call Lynn Pringle at 395-6364.

Bids for elevation of Lake Villa-Antioch Center will be in soon

By JULIE MURPHY Staff Reporter

At a special meeting of the board of education for Antioch Community High School (ACHS) Dist. 117, Supt. Dennis Hockney said bids on the elevation of the Lake Villa-Antioch Center are to be received by the end of the month with construction beginning "a month or so later" depending on the weather. "We're on the fast track with this project," said Hockney.

State Rep. Timothy Osmond (R-Antioch) helped secure $900,000 of Illinois First money to construct a building that will provide space for the administrative offices of both the Antioch Township and for the high school offices. Additionally, there will be a large area for senior citizen and community program, and it will be the site for the Meals on Wheels program for Northwest Lake County, though the Antioch Senior Center will still operate the Meals on Wheels program for Antioch.

Board member Wayne Sobczak wanted to clarify that ACHS is providing - not donating the land for the site, located on the north end of the property where the new high school is to be built at the northeast corner of the intersection of Deep Lake and Grass Lake roads, and will extend utilities from the high school to the center. Antioch townships has plans to use the proceeds from the sale of its current building to help with the construction costs, and Lake Villa will add to the funding kitty as well.

Bill Ahlers, business manager for the high school explained that ACHS would take care of the maintenance and custodial duties for the building. "We were the best situated to do this," he said. Catholic Charities, the entity in charge of Meals on Wheels, will take care of the keeping the kitchen area clean.

Despite efforts to move swiftly on this project, permits have not been issued due to a snags the result of a U.S. Supreme Court ruling about the management of wetlands, and which ones fall under the jurisdiction of the U.S. Army Corp of Engineers. Hockney said, "The corp isn't doing anything until there is some clarification for them about the ruling. We are investigating with the county what we can do to keep moving forward."

Mayoral candidate Maravela discusses community issues before the election

By JULIE MURPHY Staff Reporter

Mayoral candidate Taso Maravelas announced the community issues he will focus on if he is elected mayor in the April 3 election.

The 28-year resident of the village listed his top four priorities as follows: strictly controlled growth, immediate relief from storm water drainage and sewage problems, street repair and traffic control and improved village services. He said he believes village government must change to one of inclusiveness and courteousness, utilizing a true team approach.

"Only when we have accomplished this important first step can the village and its residents work as a team to concentrate efforts on the problems we all know need immediate and dedicated attention," said Maravelas. He elaborated and said local government should work to recruit citizen input and participation at all levels.

Maravelas said he feels the foremost concern of residents is continued unchecked growth. "We must be vigilant in ensuring that any and all growth be strictly controlled," he said. "We may be legally obligated to consider the rights of the developer, but no longer at the expense of the people of the Village of Antioch." He hopes to put a moratorium on any proposed development until "the impact of current development is fully realized."

Next on the list, Maravelas said he will work to eliminate flooding in the residential areas of the village. "When considering the use of the resources of the village, the first priority must be to correct the storm water problems. In addition, the village must assist its homeowners in solving their individual storm water and sewer issues," he said in a written statement. "Absolutely no one in this village should have to go to sleep at night and worry that their basement will be flooded in the morning."

Maravelas claims that "years of neglect have taken their toll on Antioch's residential streets." He feels a comprehensive plan is needed to correct the problem. "The repair of streets will be a high priority in my administration," he added.

The mayoral candidate proposes the formation of a transportation committee to provide a forum for solutions to the growing volume of regional and village traffic, and vows to meet with elected state officials and the Illinois Department of Transportation (IDO1).

Maravelas feels an increase in qualified staff at the Public Works

Dept. is necessary to offset what he called "an ill-fated attempt at privatizing some of the village's services." Additionally, he said residents have expressed the desire bring back "clean up week" or some sort of semi-annual neighborhood trash pick up.

In closing, Maravelas said, "Planning and foresight on the part of the village government coupled with the real and constructive involvement of local residents is the key to maintaining the careful balance of residential neighborhoods, open lands and business community that makes the Village of Antioch a truly special place."

Sequoit Pride donates $19,000

The Antioch Community High School's (ACHS) organization of parents, Sequoit Pride, voted to contribute over $19,000 to support various school programs, clubs and activities. The budget for this contribution comes from the group's fundraising projects including concession sales, the Spirit Wear shop and the Sequoit Pride golf outing.

Written requests are submitted to the organization's executive board in the fall for consideration, with the money being dispersed to various departments and organizations to enhance their programs.

"It's a tough call," said Sequoit Pride president Sherrill Tripp. "There are ten times more requests than monies available."

This year's donations will support math fair, guest artists, band clinicians, chemistry software, the senior picnic and gifts, junior prom, freshman orientation, grills for the food department, heart rate monitors, cheerleading mats, pole vaulting equipment, teacher appreciation gifts and a new scorer's table for the gymnasium.

"The entire membership weighs the impact the funded request will have on the student body as a whole," said Tripping, adding that all ACHS parents are welcome to join Sequoit Pride in its efforts to support worthwhile causes throughout the school.

Pierce announces his goals for Antioch's future

By JULIE MURPHY Staff Reporter

Scott Pierce, who has over 21 years of military service experience and is running for trustee for the Village of Antioch, announced the goals he feels are important to Antioch's future.

In a written statement, he presented the list as follows and said it will be the hallmark of his service to the residents of Antioch: growth that is planned in accordance with a comprehensive plan that complements the small town atmosphere of Antioch; development of a realistic plan that addresses the increasing needs of the village's infrastructure; work with local, county and state elected officials to initiate solutions to Antioch's increasing traffic congestion; work with village engineers and public works department to develop a comprehensive short-term and longterm solution for areas prone to storm water damage; work to ensure the public works department has the proper resources to address the needs of the village residents; work with village residents to ensure families can safely walk together without fear of high-speed traffic; and to bring an open door policy to the village board where residents will be heard and solutions to their problems developed when possible.

Pierce, a 13-year resident and president of the Oakwood Knolls property owners association, said he plans to run a pro-active campaign that will allow voters to get know who he is and what is goals are for the future if elected trustee.

"A look at my record of service will tell the voters a lot about my qualifications of leadership and dedication," said Pierce. "I have served aboard two guided missile destroyers in areas such as the Persian Gulf, South Atlantic, North Atlantic and the Mediterranean, during which I learned the importance of service to one's community and country."

Pierce wants to bring his experience to Antioch and said, "Setting realistic goals and acting upon those goals is paramount to ensuring a village environment in which we all can be proud."

village had not acquired the necessary easements to do so. This separate system is to be located on the 55-acre property he has under contract, and also petitioned to annex into the village in August of 2000.

Neumann claims to have requested on numerous occasions that the revised preliminary PUD (planned unit development) be placed back on the agenda for continuation of the hearing as the sanitary sewer and potable water issues has been addressed. He contends that the village has both refused his requests and placed additional conditions on him.

These conditions are as follows: "the plaintiffs must grant easements for sanitary sewer and water service to the village over the Anest property and over the 55-acre property; the plaintiffs must drill a test well to establish that there is an adequate water supply to serve the property; and the plaintiffs must agree to improve the intersection of U.S. Route 45 and Illinois Route 173, even thought the Village does not have jurisdiction over that intersection and Plaintiffs can only make such improvements as are approved by the Illinois Department of Transportation."

The lawsuit seeks both mandamus and damages in the five counts filed against the village that include issues of procedural due process, equal protection and unconstitutional conditions (taking of property).

"We've tried to accommodate the concerns of the city (Antioch) with regard to the comments of staff, board members and administrators," said Neumann.

Dinner added to night of comedy

Lasagna, laughs set for evening of March 3

By-JULIE MURPHY Staff Reporter

The Antioch Jr. Woman's Club (AJWC) is adding a lasagna dinner to their fifth annual Comedy Night to be held on March 3 at the St. Peter School in Antioch.

"We've hired professional comedians to perform at our shows for the last five years," said member Linda Pedersen. This year's event will feature Mike Toomey and T.R. Benker.

The evening, that has traditionally included a silent auction, comedy show, dessert and cash bar, has included dinner in the $20 ticket price. Pasta Makers of Lake Zurich is supplying the main course made from the owner's, Joe Furlato, grandmother's old family recipe. Attendees must be over 21 years old to enter.

The drawing for a 3-day 2-night trip to Las Vegas will be held following the evening's entertainment, but the winner need not be present. Ticket are being sold between now and comedy night for $5 each by AJWC members.

Comedy night is AJWC's largest annual fund raising event. "The money we raise goes into our ways and means account for our philanthropic activities," said Pedersen. "We are committed to giving back to the community."

Proceeds have supported local organizations including various Antioch area school programs, Antioch Rescue Squad, Guiding Eyes for the Blind, A Safe Place/Lake County Crisis Center and Save a Life Foundation among others.

Tickets for comedy night are available at the First National Bank-Employee Owned (FNBEO), State Bank of the Lakes, Antioch Chiropractic or from any member of the AJWC.

Assault

Lyle H. Tewes, 66, of 1415 N. Cedar Lake Rd. in Round Lake was arrested by Lindenhurst Police on Feb. 6 at 11:53 a.m. on Grand Ave. at Munn Rd. after a female driver called 911 and reported Tewes had attempted to drive her off the road. The woman had pulled out of the Amoco gas station near Deep Lake Rd., and was waiting in the turn lane for traffic to allow her to move, when a man later identified as Tewes, allegedly raised his middle finger at her, cut her off in traffic, tailgated and made gestures including a "gun-to-head" gesture with his hands. Police advised her to come to the police dept. to press charges. Tewes claimed the woman pulled in front of him, nearly causing an accident, and she "needed to be taught a lesson." He was charged with assault, an ordinance violation, and released on an I-bond with a notice to. appear in Grayslake court.

Shawn D. Ellis, 27, of 23637 Petite Lake Rd. in Lake Villa was arrested by Lindenhurst Police on Feb. 6 at 10:34 p.m. Police found Ellis after he left the scene of an accident. He appeared intoxicated, but refused breath tests and field sobriety tests. When asked his address, he uttered an obscenity and refused to cooperate with fingerprinting and other booking procedures. He was put in a holding cell, for the officer's safety. He was later remanded to the Lake County Jail.

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

Antioch Electoral Board defended

On Feb. 5, the Antioch Electoral Board voted to recommend removal of Robert McCarty's name from the April 3 election ballot because he submitted 51 rather than 62 valid signatures on his candidate petition. Statements made by McCarty and his attorney, Robert Long, regarding both the composition and recent actions of the Antioch Electoral Board show utmost disrespect for a legitimate legal process and the integrity of individuals required to participate in it. By law, the Electoral Board is made up of the Mayor, the Trustee with the longest tenure, and the Village Clerk. However, from the start of the hearing it became apparent that Long and McCarty had chosen to focus their case on contesting procedural matters, the members of the Electoral Board, and the reputations of the objectors rather than on a defense of the numerous invalid signatures on McCarty's petition.

For example, Robert Long arrived at the hearing with a written motion to dismiss the proceedings. This motion included counts entitled "Lack of Jurisdiction": and "Denial of Due Process." Yet when Long was given opportunities to have the hearing continued to another date to allow him more time to prepare Robert McCarty's case, he and McCarty left the hearing before discussion of the numerous signature irregularities even began.

While still present at the hearing, Robert Long referred to concerns of the Antioch First objectors as "hyper technicalities." In fact, any reader of Robert McCarty's petition easily could have seen that it contained 20 signatures with addresses located outside village limits. Eight of these names had been removed prior to submittal of the petition by notations on the petition and by being listed on a certificate of deletion. However, the remaining 12 signatures with addresses outside village limits were submitted as valid signatures. The Electoral Board correctly determined these 12 signatures to be invalid as well as 28 additional signatures in the category "Signer Not Registered at Address shown," and 11 signatures in the category "Signer's Signature Not Genuine" because the signature on the petition did not match the signature on official records. The Electoral Board also accepted the conclusions of affidavits indicating two signatures on Mc Carty's petition were duplicates of signatures on the objectors' petition, and two signatures had been forged on the petition.

It is important to understand that the decisions to declare these signatures invalid and the votes to recommend removal of Robert Mc Carty's name from the ballot due to an insufficient number of valid signatures were made by only two members of the Electoral Board. Because the Mayor is running for re-election in the same party as the three objectors, she chose not to participate in any discussions and did not vote, although was she entitled to do so because she was not one of the objectors. Furthermore, the decisions were made after viewing official certified records from the Lake County Clerk's office.

Robert Long and Robert McCarty could have accepted opportunities to continue the hearing, researched the validity of the objections to the signatures, and appealed any decisions with which they did not agree. However, they ignored the questions of fraud and other obvious signature irregularities on the petition, and chose instead to smear both the legal process and the individuals required to participate in it with unfair and undeserved criticism.

File taxes on the Internet

Record numbers of Illinoisans are turning to the Internet to file their Illinois taxes this year, and three out of four are using direct deposit to get their refunds in about a week.

"Taxpayers who chose our Internet (I-File) program were able to file electronically for free, get their refunds in about a week, and not have to cash a check," said Glen Bower, Director of Revenue.

Other advantages to Internet filling include confirmation numbers that taxpayers can use to prove filing, electronic edits that reduce errors, and the convenience of filling 24 hours per day, Bower said.

So far this year, 15,706 taxpayers have filed through the Department of Revenue's I-File program, 36 percent more than at the same time last year.

Approximately three out of four Illinoisans can use the I-File as a pilot program twice as many as could use the program last year.

The Department of Revenue introduced I-File as a pilot program in 1999 and it was used by 11,190 taxpayers. Last year, 43,538 taxpayers used the Internet to file their Illinois tax re-

Qualifications for I-File, and all other elec-

Some and the second sec tronic filing programs, are listed in Illinois Income Tax booklets and on the department's web site at www.revenue.state.il.us. Taxpayers can select an option that works for them.

> Internet filers need their personal identification number (IL-PIN) that was assigned to taxpayers who filed returns in 2000. The IL-PIN was included with the tax booklets.

> Taxpayers who filed a return last year but did not receive a booklet can get their IL-PIN from the department's web site or by calling (800) 732-8866. Taxpayers should have their driver's license available.

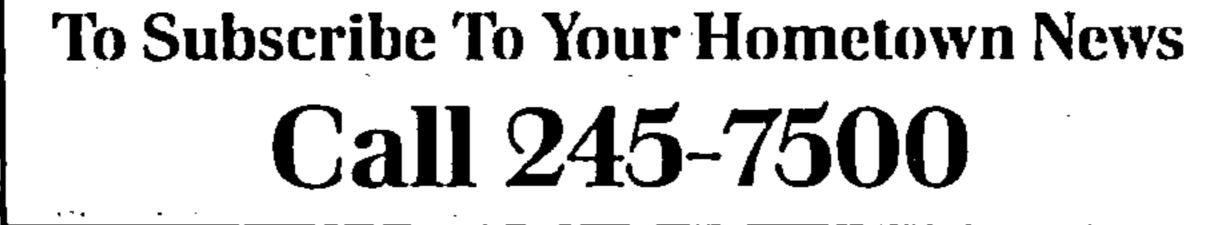

> I-File is one of four electronic filing options that the Department of Revenue offers, each of which will provide refunds in about a week when taxpayers use direct deposit:

> •TeleFile – free filing via touch-tone telephone, > e-File – filing through a tax preparer, and, •retail software, filing through commercial packages like Turbo Tax or TaxCut.

> So far this filing season, more than 460,000 taxpayers have filed their returns electronically, and 122,000 have chosen to have their refunds direct deposited in their bank accounts.

Strong start, finish not enough to overcome Devils

By JOHN PHELPS Sports Editor

It seemed like old times on a special night in Antioch.

Except for the outcome.

Prior to the varsity basketball game against visiting Warren, Antioch High School honored members of its 1981 squad, which made a trip to the Elite 8 before losing in the state quarter-finals. The team earned the right to go downstate following a one-point victory over Palatine in the DeKalb supersectional and concluded that season 23-5.

"This was truly a special group of athletes to work with," said then-head coach Roger Andrews, who was joined by assistants Jeff Dresser, Norm Hahn, John Prusila, Bruce Tossey and Don Zeman at center-court. "We're very proud to have been representatives of the high school and the Antioch community. We'll remember this occasion forever."

After a moment of silence honoring '81 team member Pete Weber, who has since passed away, players congregated at center-court for a standing ovation from the partisan crowd.

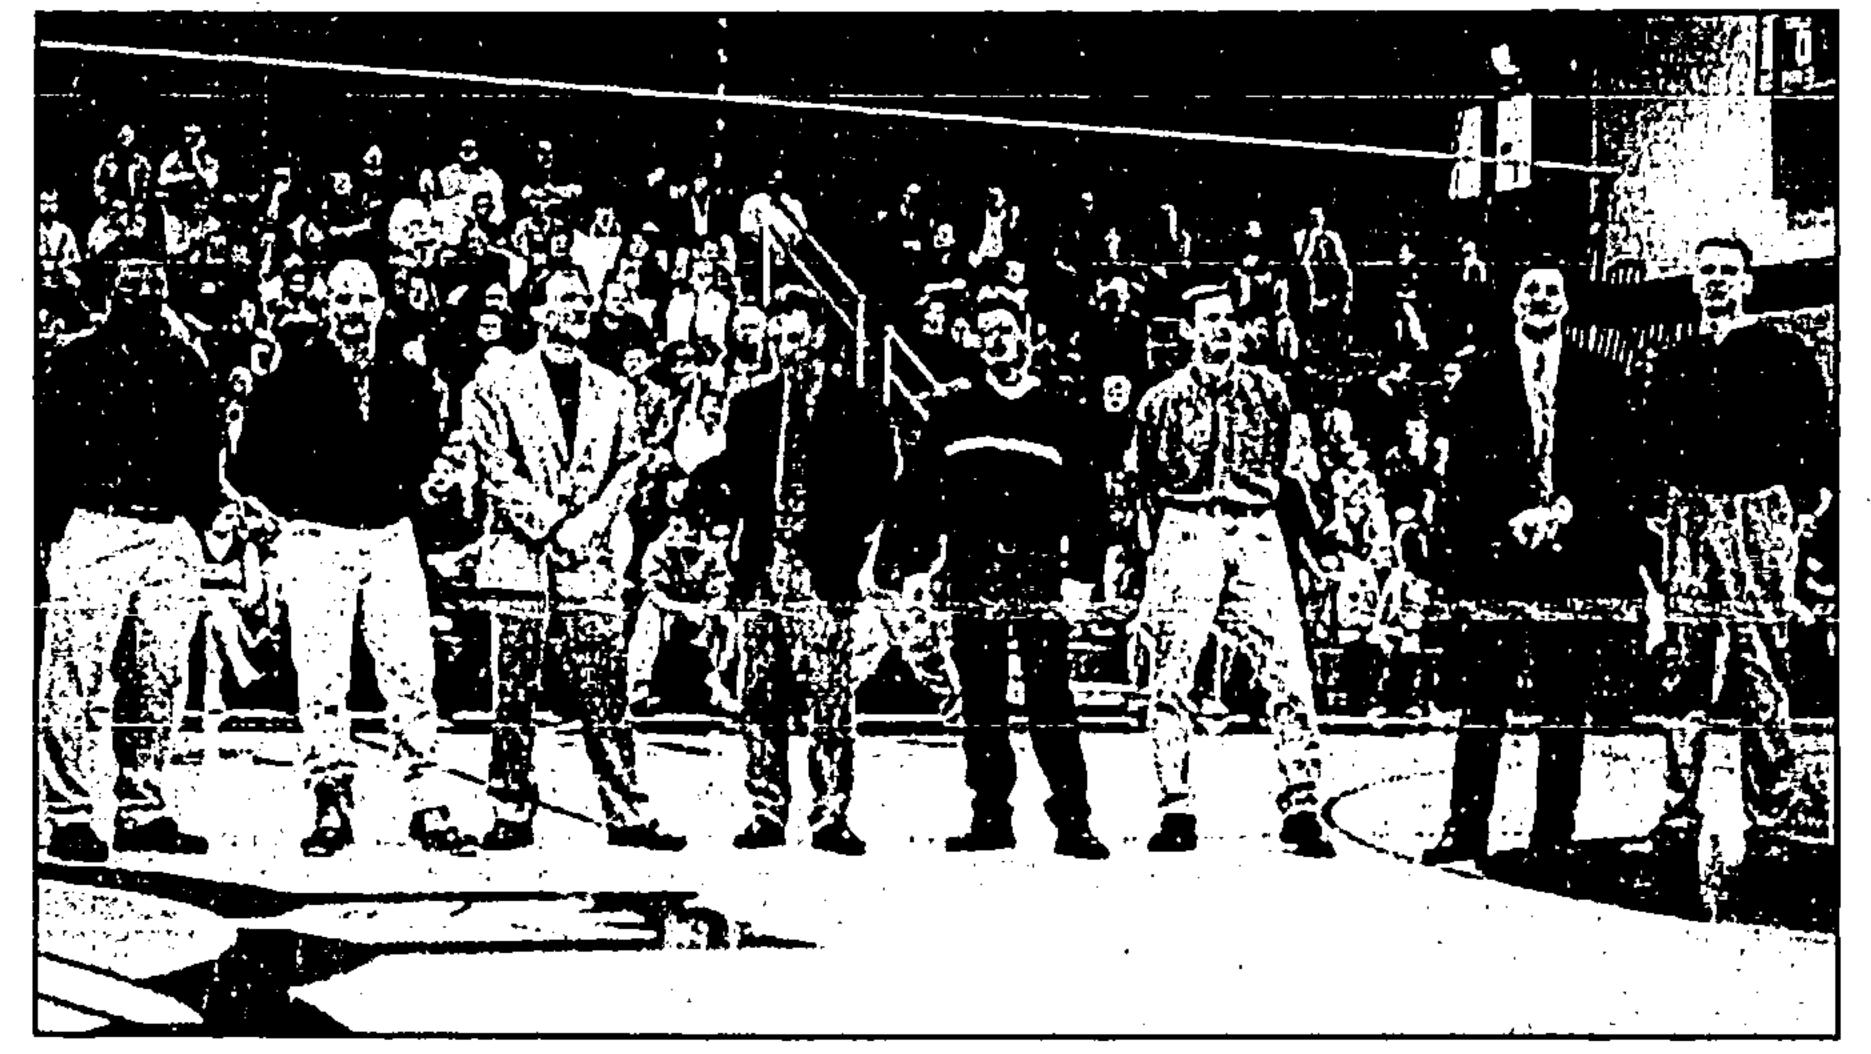

Several members weren't able to attend, including Gene Zannini, Steve Sheedlo, Gordon Nasenbeny, Steve Eckhart, Bob Gatti, Robert Herich, Dennis Cardiff and Kevin Hassett.

Following the short ceremony, it was time for hoops. And the 2000-01 cast of varsity boys basketball players could have used a little magic from the '81 squad.

The Sequoits (10-13, 2-7) staged a furious comeback only to fall short to the Devils, 65-58.

"We got off to a nice start but their inside presence eventually got the best of us," said head coach Jeff Dresser. "We played hard and had a nice comeback at the end. We just broke down defensively, even when we got them in the half-court."

After Eric White's three-point play gave the

The 1981 ACHS basketball team was recognized for it Elite Eight appearance before the varsity contest between the Sequoits and Warren Feb. 6. Team members present included (in no order) Dean Haviland, John Ploss, Gary Volling, Tim Koesser, Guy Abderholden, Richard Ranney, Marshall Olson, Mike Gofron and Dee Maras. There was also a moment of silence for player Pete Weber, who has since passed away. The '81 squad was coached by Roger Andrews. hosts a 9-2 lead with four minutes left in the first quarter. Warren responded with a 9-2 spree of its own to tie the contest at 11.

From there, Warren (17-4) went ahead for good after a bucket at the 45 second mark as Antioch was forced to play catch-up.

The Devils went up by as many as 14 twice early in the fourth frame before the fireworks started.

White led the charge by scoring 13 of his game-high 28 points during the final eight minutes. Teammate Ari Brown also found the shooting touch, tallying 14 of his 18 points in the fourth.

Brown hit two trey's in the final minute to close the gap to 63-58 but the proverbial fouling at the end of the game for Antioch resulted in two free-throws and the final margin of victory.

"We did a nice job on (Mark) Klemm," said Dresser. "They just have too many weapons." The Sequoits, who have lost nine of their last 11 games, get a chance to avenge a close loss to Mundelein Jan. 12 when it entertains the Mustangs Feb. 16 at 7:30 p.m.

"At this point, we're just trying to play for respectability before regionals start," added Dresser.

Palatine next, final stop for area gymnasts

By JOHN PHELPS Sports Editor

Explosive is a fitting description for whatwill most likely unfold Feb. 16-17 at Palatine High School.

That's where you'll find the best of the best gymnasts in the state, who will demonstrate their tricks and talents at the IHSA State Gymnastics Meet.

It will be an exciting occasion for those who have made the trip before, such as Ashley Alden of Warren.

Alden, the reigning state champ on the beam, will lock horns with Stevenson's Lindsay Borkan and Glenbrook South's Alyson Cacciatore in what should be a tight duel for the allaround title.

But it won't just be Alden this year. The Blue Devils, in only their second season of competing, gained an at-large team berth after scoring a 147.825 at the Deerfield sectional Feb. 7.

"I couldn't be happier," said Warren head coach J.R. Halek. "We're still a little banged up with injuries but we managed to stay around the 146 mark. That says a lot about the talent and depth we have."

Meanwhile, it will be exciting for those making their first trip. Just ask Antioch's Amanda Wagener.

After finishing 11th on the beam at the Deerfield sectional Feb. 7, Wagener didn't think she had a prayer of making as one of the at-large qualifiers in that event.

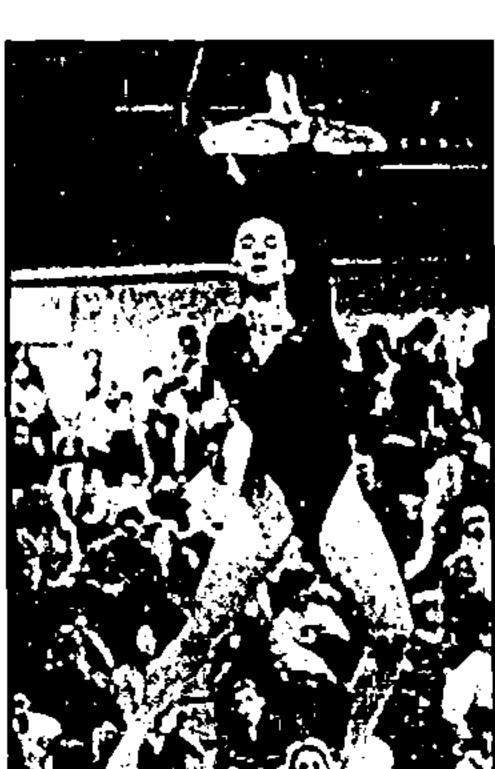

"I thought the season was over," the freshman said after hitting a 9.050 on the beam to finish 11th at Deerfield.

"But then (on Monday) our athletic director (Steve Schoenfelder) pulled me out of class to tell me I made it. Needless to say, I returned to class with a big smile."

Teammate Jackie Cerney, a Way senior who qualified last year on vault, missed an at-large berth after finishing

"I was great to be here - it was like a basketball game with everyone yelling and cheering," she said. "I couldn't get pumped up for my passes on the floor routine. I guess I was sad because I knew the end was nearing."

Vernon Hills, in its first season, had an exceptional year, posting regular scores in the 140s throughout.

Though it just missed qualifying as a team, Jamie Milarski, Kristin Filippo and Lauren Hallyburton will all represent the Cougars in Palatine. Milarski qualified for beam while Hallyburton will compete on vault and Filippo the floor exercise, both via at-large berths.

Neighboring Libertyville will send Michelle Schweigert, who qualified in the floor exercise after finishing fourth (9.450). The sophomore also gained an atlarge berth in the all-around.

For Carmel, it was a disappointing end to an otherwise stellar career for Corsair all-around, senior Lisa Berrones. Berrones, who qualified for state last year, finished tied for 13th on beam (9.20) and just missed an at-large berth.

The state meet begins Feb. 16 with preliminaries for the vault and bars begins at 12:30 p.m. and for the beam and floor 6:30.

The top 10 from each event will then compete in the finals, starting at 6 p.m. Feb. 17.

A myriad of area wrestlers to compete in state tournament

By ROB BACKUS
Staff Reporter

The area will be well represented this year at the state tournament.

For some, like Carmel's Ben Lawrence, who finished eighth in the state last year, it will be business as usual.

For others, like Antioch's Steve Oliver, who came out of nowhere at the Conant sectional to qualify for state, it will be an entirely new experience.

"He's been coming on of late," said Antioch head coach Ted Sieckowski of Oliver. "I told him that he was our best chance and the more confidence he has, the better he'll do."

nine area wrestlers will compete against the

But for all, it is sure to be a challenge as other top-24 wrestlers in the state in each respective weight class.

"Anything can happen downstate," said Grayslake head coach Steve Wood, who will coach Josh Mellander (140 pounds) at the state tournament.

Despite the tough competition, all coaches seem reasonably confident in their wrestlersi chances downstate.

"He knows that hels going down (to state) to win some matches, not just to visit," said Warren head coach Mark Tiffany of Mike Doyle (215 pounds). "I think he's going to place."

To place, a wrestler must finish in the top six, a tall order against such stiff competition.

And all coaches, like Carmel's Joe Scordino, who will coach Ryan Overby (103) and Lawrence (145), are extremely proud of their wrestlers.

"I'm very pleased for both of them (Overby and Lawrence)," said Scordino. "They worked hard all year and they deserve it."

Although anything can happen downstate, if any team has a shot at having a wrestler medal, it's Libertyville, which will send three wrestlers.

The Wildcats will send Mike Lopez (119), Dave Tajak (135) and Zach Barrile (160) to the

"If we get off to a good start, we have a good shot (at placing)," said Libertyville head coach

Dale Eggert. "Otherwise it's one and done."

Mundelein's Andy Blessing also qualified for state at 130 pounds.

The state tournament will be held at the University of Illinois at Champaign on February 16-17.

Sen. Fitzgerald sponsors plan

In an effort to aid our nation's needlest families and combat hunger around the world, U.S. Senator Peter G. Fitzgerald (R-Illinois) is backing legislation making it easier for businesses to donate food to charity.

"For the past decade, we have experienced one of the longest and most prosperous periods of economic growth in our nation's history. Unfortunately, some families remain hungry," Fitzgerald said. According to reports, Second Harvest food banks, the nation's largest hunger relief network, provides emergency food aid to approximately 26 million Americans each year.

Food banks and charities are facing an uphill battle to meet the demand for food assistance, due in large part to a recent decline in corporate and business food donations. Many food banks have traditionally relied on corporate food contributions to help those in need, but improvements in production technology have caused those donations-generated largely by overproduction and other production inefficiencies-to decline in recent years. Nearly one million needy people-more than 20 percent of all Americans seeking emergency hunger relief-were turned away from food banks in 1999 for a lack of food, according to Second Harvest.

"It's unfortunate when charities have to turn hungry people away because there isn't enough food, especially since so much food goes to waste every year." Fitzgerald said, pointing to U.S. Department of Agriculture statistics showing that up to 96 billion pounds of food go to waste annually in this country.

To address the food banks' shortages, Fitzgerald is co-sponsoring a measure that will expand and increase a tax incentive that encourages businesses to donate excess food to help needy families. Fitzgerald, who initially co-sponsored the hunger relief measure last year, joined Senate Agriculture Committee Chairman Richard Lugar (R-Indiana) in reintroducing the bill.

Under current law, corporations are able to deduct from income taxes a portion of the cost, of the food, they donate to charity... Because many businesses have found the deduction insufficient to offset their costs, they have opted, in many instances, not to make contributions at all. Fitzgerald's bill will increase the deduction to make giving affordable for businesses, and extend the tax incentive-which is currently available only to large corporationsto all business taxpayers, including farmers, ranchers, restaurant owners, and other small business owners.

"This common-sense proposal will boost charitable food donations by allowing farmers and restaurant owners-who are sometimes in a superior position to donate food-to take advantage of this tax incentive and help needy families," Fitzgerald concluded.

Lake County's only female brewmaster produces libations with unique tastes and personalities

Laura Woodford mixes ingredients for a batch of beer at Columbia Bay restaurant. It takes about 4-5 hours to mix each 130-gallon batch, which must then ferment for 16 days.

a world dominated by men, Laura Woodford is pioneering the art of brewing, being a brewster with her own unique line of brews in the Lake County area.

Woodford's brewery is a new addition to her family's restaurant, Columbia Bay, 38744 Hwy. 59 in Lake Villa, which has been in operation for 17 years.

Her father, Bob Hoff, and husband, Sam, helped Woodford build the brewery 21 months ago in a section of Columbia Bay that once was previously part of a dining room.

Diners can see the brewery while they dine through the floor to ceiling glass windows that separate the brewery from the dining room. For the most part, they won't see Woodford making her brews during business hours because she likes to focus on her work without many distractions.

With five regular brews and occasional seasonal brews offered year-round, Woodford has plenty of time to create new and unique flavors. The regular customers to Columbia Bay have even nicknamed her the "Brew Broad."

"I do it differently then others," she stated. Woodford likes her flavored beers to taste like beer, not heavy syrup flavoring, but still have a slight aftertaste of flavor.

Each beer has it's own unique taste and personality which her daughter, Amanda Woodford, now 15, illustrates into a cartoon character she created named Chester.

Story and photos by Lisa Rowe

Woodford is a self-taught brewmaster who, remarkably, has learned the trade by assisting other breweries in Wisconsin and Illinois. Woodford doesn't drink beer, but she loves the smell of it as well as the thrill of the process.

Before she could even start her adventure, she first had to build her micro-brewery. The equipment arrived in the beginning of January 1999 and Woodford was able to pull her first glass of beer on March 29 of that year.

With all of the equipment primed for brewing, Woodford buried her nose into books on the subject, becoming more knowledgeable about an ambition she knew nothing about. Other brewmasters also taught her the art of making beer by showing her how it was done in their own breweries.

After the equipment was installed, she had to learn how her own system operated. "I never thought I would learn more about beer in my life," she admits. Woodford explained that it only takes her four-and-a-half hours to make a batch, but in order to drink it, it must ferment for 16 days.

Each batch that is made produces approximately 130 gallons that are stored in huge tanks in a refrigerator unit behind the bar. Woodford even created her own root beer and cream soda fountain drinks that she also serves at the restaurant.

The Columbia Bay brewery and the "Brew Broad" can be seen at the Columbia Bay restaurant in Lake Villa. For more information regarding the Columbia Bay brewery, contact Laura Woodford at 356-8550.

Volunteers wanted

Tax aide program to help seniors

The American Association of Retired Persons (AARP) is on the lookout for a few good volunteers, particularly men and women who like working with numbers and who enjoy helping senior citizens prepare their income tax returns.

The Lake County division of the AARP Tax Aide program is now accepting applications from adult volunteers of all ages that want to help senior citizens with their income taxes. The AARP Tax Aide program is co-sponsored by the IRS.

Starting in January, there will be a five or six-day training course for the Tax Aide volunteers, know as Tax Aide Counselors, under IRS supervision. Volunteers are required to pass an open book examination before they may counsel seniors.

Volunteers are reimbursed for out of pocket expenses such as mileage, parking

In return for the training received and after they have been certified by the IRS, volunteers are expected to spend four hours (or more) each week from February 1 through April 15 assisting senior taxpayers at an assigned convenient site such as a senior center or library. Seniors are not charged for this service. Last year, in the U.S.A., more than 31,000 Tax Aide volunteers aided more than 1.5 million persons with their tax returns.

Persons living in Lake County, who would like to help seniors prepare their income tax returns can do so by calling or writing: William J. Kozel, phone: 223-4414, AARP Tax-Aide, 601 E. St., N.W. Washington, D.C., 1-888-227-7669.

From here to column hibernation

'hat a lucky woman I am!-For nearly seven years, I have been allowed to chronicle my family's foibles, laugh at the powerful and often clueless, indulge in some silly rhymes and songs, and just generally have a creatively good time within the pages of Lakeland's 11 newspapers. All that with a minimum of fallout from my relatives, no lawsuits and a relatively small quantity of hate mail.

But...you saw that word coming, didn't you...as lucky as I have been, nothing good comes without a price. And for me the price has been the loss of a good deal of sleep and, along with it, some deadline burnout.

LIFE'S A BEAR

Donna Abear

I greatly admire folks like Dave Barry and Oh, yeah, I almost forgot – and I got paid for Erma Bombeck, who were (and in Dave's case, still are) able to churn out several columns a week for decades. However, besides the obvious difference in talent between us, there is one other big difference — neither of them had a "day job." Their column was their "day job."

I, on the other hand have, along with a husband and four children, a "day job." Also, I tend to follow the advice of wise people who, after reading my column, said, "Hey, not bad. Of course, I wouldn't quit your day job."

Still, I'm not complaining. It's great to be a woman in a country such as ours, where I have so many options to "have it all." That being the case, I also have another option: to "have less than all," to simplify my life, and take the time to explore the possibilities.

And that is the choice I am making for now. It hasn't been an easy decision - important ones never are. And the most difficult part of the decision was the feeling that I would be letting down those who are most important to any writer—the readers.

I have heard from quite a few of you over the years, by mail or e-mail, and some I've also had the pleasure of meeting face to face. Your intelligence, kindness, insight and support has kept me going on many occasions. While many of you have said that my column has brightened your day, I can also assure you that your letters have brightened mine.

Even the occasional "hate mail" has proven to be entertaining, at least once I learned (the hard way!) to take it in stride. One of my most memorable letters from a reader included, amongst other things, the suggestion that I would make "a nice concubine for the Clinton administration" (certainly the strangest "compliment" I have ever received!)

But...there's that word again...as much as I appreciate all of you, in the end I have to do what is best for me and my family. And so this "bear" is going into "column hibernation."

A song keeps running around my head as I try to find a fitting last sentiment. Remember the wonderful Carol Burnett show? She always ended it with a little song:

"I'm so glad we had this time together, Just to have a laugh or sing a song..."

That says it pretty well, don't you think? Goodnight for now. And thank you!

'Hannibal' a 'cut' above today's thrillers s I sat down to watch what was probably one of the most anticipated sequels ever to a psychological thriller, the first thing I did was close my eyes for a moment. Then, I just listened.

I listened to the voice of Julianne Moore, who plays FBI agent Clarice Starling--- a role originally held by Jodie Foster in "Silence of the Lambs," which was the prequel to "Hannibal." In fact, Foster won an Academy Award for "Best Actress" for her performance in the film.

Although she fails to completely capture Foster's wavering southern accent from the first film, Moore did a very good job of grasping what Clarice Starling is all about, which should immediately capture the audience's interest.

This time around, we find the notorious Dr. Hannibal Lecter (Anthony Hopkins) working in Florence, Italy as a museum curator.

Hannibal

Rating Director

Ridley Scott

Starring Anthony Hopkins Julianne Moore Gary Oldman

Ray Liotta Giancarlo Giannini

Things heat up when millionaire Mason Verger (Gary Oldman) notifies the FBI that he has new information about Lecter. Mason, now grossly disfigured, was the only one of Hannibal's victims to survive his cannibalistic spree.

The plot thickens when an Italian police detective, played brilliantly by actor Giancarlo Giannini, thinks he has spotted Lecter hiding out in Florence. Greed gets the best of our detective friend, after he finds out there is a $3 million reward for Hannibal's capture. What he doesn't know is the money is from Mason, who is seeking revenge against Lecter.

Without going into too much detail, Clarice receives a letter from Lecter, who has been monitoring her career for several years. After being put on temporary suspension at the FBI because of a snafu with corrupt Justice Dept. official Paul Krendler (Ray Liotta), Lecter pays a visit to the United States, and eventually to Agent Starling.

It would be unfair to give away any more information than this, but I will say one thing—look for a sequel to this one.

"Hannibal" is a film, considering all of the hype and expectations, that did a good job of keeping fans on the edge of their seats. What sets this movie apart from the first one is that it is more of an in-your-face type of thriller, as opposed to the mindbending psychological aspects from the 'Silence of the Lambs.'

With this said, be warned—this is not a movie for anyone under age 16. There are some pretty disturbing things that you will have to see to believe in this movie, enough that many people are wondering why this film has an "R" rating instead of an "NC-17."

Nevertheless, "Hannibal" gives fans what they were looking for—a real good scare that will leave you a bit disturbed as you walk out of the theater, I will assure you of that. The only negative to the movie is that Lecter is portrayed almost as if he is superhuman to a degree, or beyond being caught. Then again, maybe that is what makes him so scary.

This is a movie I would pay to see twice, and probably will. I give "Hannibal" four out of five popcom boxes.

A cow on parade

ueling the Next Moolenium," one of nearly 320 art cows displayed in Chicago's Cows on Parade exhibit, found her final resting place at Lambs Farm, Rte. 176 and I-94 in Libertyville on Jan. 11.

Appropriately dressed in a chef's hat, "Moolenium" will greet restaurant patrons in the front foyer until the warm weather season when she can be displayed outdoors. North Shore residents Robert Lamphere, Gerard Kenny and John Lehman generously donated "Moolenium" after purchasing her in the Nov. 9 Charity Cow Auction.

"Fueling the Next Moolenium" was originally displayed at Prudential Plaza during the celebrated Cows on Parade exhibit that ran from June 15, 1999 to Oct. 31, 1999 — producing an economic impact estimated at $200 million dollars for the city of Chicago.

Created by artist Wade Thrail, "Moolenium" houses a gas grill in her back complete with salt and pepper shakers while holding a spatula in her mouth.

The Chicago Department of Cultural Affairs described the cows from the parade as "worthy trophies of Chicago history" adding "More than that, the cows are works of art to be treasured."

Lambs Farm is very pleased to be the permanent home of the historical cows and invites community members to come and see "Moolenium" on display.

"Moolenium" can be seen in The Country Inn Restaurant, open . Tuesday-Friday, 7 a.m.-3 p.m. and Saturday and Sunday, 8 a.m.-3 p.m. during the winter season.

Efforts renewed to save VA Hospital

Kirk joins fight to save hospital serving veterans in Lake County and adjoining areas

With a new administration in Washington, D.C., the effort to save North Chicago Veterans Administration Hospital from closure has taken on renewed effort.

Phil Mazur, citizen activist who has been leading the battle to save the hospital, reported that Congressman Mark Steven Kirk (R-10th) has joined the fight to save the hospital serving veterans in Lake County and adjoining areas.

A group of veterans attended a meeting of the Lake County Board Tuesday, Feb. 13, to urge support for a resolution condeming a report issued by the Capital Asset Realignment for Enhanced Services (CARES) ordered by the Dept. of Veterans Affairs.

Mazur said the CARES report is being "rammed down everyone's throat." The report, calling for closing the hospital and downgrading the facility, was adopted by the Clinton administration. The Navy veteran who resides in Libertyville pointed out that implementation would be by appointees of the past.

Congresman Kirk is taking a leadership role in getting new appointees to review CARES proposals before implementation.

Currently, North Chicago VA is a full service facility offering primary medical care, mental health care, rehabilitation, geriatric care and a range of ancillary programs. During fiscal 2000, the facility logged 17,163 patients, nearly half of whom were from Lake County, and 185,218 outpatient visits from an area extending to central Illinois and southeastern Wisconsin.

Mazur labeled CARES proposals a "new plan disguising old aims to save money." In reality, there are new approaches being taken by the VA, Mazur insisted, to deprive veterans of their rights.

Area food pantries benefit from shopping cart race

The Lake County Farm Bureau's Third Annual "Food Check-Out Day Race for Hunger" proved to be a big success for two local food pantries. "Food Check-Out Day" is the day Lake County residents have earned enough money since Jan. 1 to purchase their food for the remainder of the year.

To help commemorate this day, two local township supervisors, Pete Tekampe, Fremont Township (third-year returning champion) and Sue Hanson, Lake Villa Township put on their running shoes to participate in a shopping cart race at the Pik Kwik Foods, 149 N. Seymour Ave.

The real winners today are those who will benefit from this food in both townships'

Pete Tekampe Fremont Township Supervisor

in Mundelein.

Tekampe and Hanson had eight minutes to move throughout the store collecting non-perishable items that contained corn, oats, soybeans or wheat as an ingredient. The two were each allowed to have a helper to bring full carts up to the check-out line and bring them empty carts. Otherwise, they were on their own.

Shoppers and employees at the store stopped and laughed as Tekampe and Hanson raced up and down the aisles. While Hanson tried to collect as many higher priced items as possible, Tekampe made sure he hit the cereal and juice aisles hard.

"Our pantry has really been hit hard and we need lots of breakfast items to re-stock our shelves," shouted Tekampe as he raced around the aisles.

As time ticked away, carts were lined up ready to be checked out. In all, Tekampe filled nine shopping carts totaling $1,170.85 while Hanson had seven carts totaling $776.68.

The Farm Bureau issued a check to Pik Kwik Owner Joe Petkus for $1,753.53 which reflected a 10 percent discount given by the store as its donation for the groceries and allowed each supervisor to bring their groceries to their food pantry for distribution to those less fortuload the groceries into her car. Both Tekampe and Hanson were presented with a winner and loser trophy for their efforts.

"The real winners today are those who will benefit from this food in both townships," said Tekampe.

Tekampe is seeking re-election in Fremont Township on Tuesday, April 3, while Hanson will retire as Lake Villa Township Supervisor later this year.

A year ago, two respected healthcare organizations came together to create a stronger vision of healthcare. That vision includes becoming Lake County's choice for healthcare services through collaboration with physicians and other healthcare providers as well as the communities we serve. We are dedicated to offering excellent services and unparalleled customer satisfaction at all of our facilities.

Our long-range plans include the development of a new hospital for the 21st century. In the meantime, we are working towards bringing our hospital services together at our Provena Saint Therese Medical Center campus. We recognize, however, that this may take several years to accomplish. Until that time, our staff will continue to provide quality services at both our Victory Memorial Hospital and Provena Saint Therese Medical Center locations.

Without our dedicated staff, we would not be able to realize our vision. We sincerely thank them for their continued commitment through this time of change.

As we continue to plan and adjust our new organization, patients' needs remain our top priority at Vista Health. Compassionate care, superior customer service and quality programs-these are our goals, for now and the future.

Home Expo a success

By HELEN MANSFIELD Staff Reporter

The heart of the annual Lake County Home and Outdoor Living Exposition was homes, homes and home improvement.

The second annual event, sponsored by Lakeland Media and Lakeland Newspapers, featured hundreds of booths that showcased a multitude of "homey" products and projects.

Gary Allison, producer of the event declared it a success.

Booths varied from lawn and garden care, window and wall treatments to luxury additions and appliances.

Over 12,000 people attended the Expo held at the Lake County Fair grounds, searching for new and affordable ways to improve their homes and increase their value.

According to Lakeland Newspaper Publisher William H. Schroeder attendance was up about 2,000 more than last year.

"It has already become the second biggest attraction to the Lake County Fair," Schroeder said. "And the biggest home show in the area."

Schroeder credited the record breaking attendance on good weather and the public's response to a "quality show of its kind."

He added planning is already underway for the 2002 Expo to make it even bigger and bet-

Quota plan not affordable answer

roviding for affordable housing through imposition of legally sanctioned quotas sounds like an idea Democrats would attempt to install at the federal level. Somewhat surprisingly, a quota plan to bring housing within reach of families in the low-range economic scale, is a notion long held near and dear to the Republican majority on the Lake County Board.

And now another attempt to inculcate affordable housing by fiat has been dropped. Lake County officials decided not to push for an amendment to the Unified Devleopment Ordinance that would have required developers to build one moderately priced home for every 10 new housing units.

Not that the idea is bad. The quota plan has worked successfully in other parts of the U.S. It's just impractical in Lake County, where more than 90 percent of the growth and development takes place within the boundaries of incorporated municipalities where elected officials set their own building and zoning standards.

County Board Rep. Robert Sabonjian (D-Waukegan) tried to demogod a decision to drop the quota plan as racially motivated. Sabonjian was off the mark. The decision to drop the latest idea to promote afforable housing basically was recognition that the plan wouldn't work. County Board Rep. Larry Leafblad (R-Highland Lake), a proponent of affordable housing, conceded the plan would have inspired a bureaucratic nightmare.

Despite the failures of county officials to mandate more affordable housing, the irony is that market forces are delivering a substantial quantity of homes that fit the pocketbook of a large segment of the home buying market. The popularity of town homes and attached homes, which typically carry a lower price tag, is evidence of the building industry's recognition of the demand for affordable housing. West Lake County, where land costs are lower, is approaching a glut stage of multi-family housing. Popularly priced single family dwellings are being produced in quantity in a substantial number of municipalities throughout the county.

Unfortunately, the Lake County Board is the wrong venue for the debate over affordable housing. Because they have control of local zoning and building codes, affordable housing needs properly should be addressed by village officials.

t's almost comical: Seeing the Flynn family flinch as the Illinois Gaming Board stuffed the Emerald Casino back down their collective throats. They have been denied their chance to make hundreds of millions of dollars.

Compare that to today's school funding fraud by the State of Illinois Illinois can find a way to "fund horseracing." Illinois can find a way to give money to "save" Arlington Park and put Zillionaire Dick D. in a position to merge with Churchill Downs and make even MORE money. But, the state can't seem to fully fund schools.

Illinois can find a way to make a new stadium for the McCaskeys, but they can't seem to find a way to help a dying school district in Round Lake. Illinois can find $6 million dollars for a waterfall at Navy Pier, but it can't seem to find a way to help District 116 with its $11 million dollar deficit.

Illinois can find a way to make the rich richer, cut deals with big money people, and further the bottom line of big spenders who give lots of money to their political campaigns. Illinois lawmakers fawn at the sight of former Governor Jim Thompson "patrolling" the halls of the state legislature looking out for the profits of his deep-pocket clients. However, they don't have time to look into the eyes of a first grader in Round Lake who may indeed not have a teacher who gets a paycheck in April, if there even IS a school.

Springfield's priority is anything but the children in our schools. Am I alone? Am I the only one who feels this state and its back-slapping, cigar-chomping, money-changing politicians are due for radical change? No, I think the people are mad as hell, and won't take it anymore. We're sitting on top a full-fledged voter revolt. They know: It's time to cut out the infected parts and start all over in the state of Illinois.

Editors note: Larry Leafblad also represents a Round Lake and Grayslake District on the Lake County Board.

VIEWPOINT

Main St. theater vestige of past

ne by one, a point of hometown pride, the main street movie house is falling by the wayside. A one-time staple of mid-20th century is just another page in history. The latest community theater in Lake County to bite the dust is the Catlow in Barrington, a downtown fixture for nearly 70 years. Operated for many years by a prominent Barrington family, the Catlow was kept alive by new owners in recent years. The Catlow was a single screen theater, a vistage of the past and an uneconomical operation.

There was a time when just about every city and town in Lake County had a main street movie house. Small town theaters were landmarks. Theater owners and managers were community celebrities.

Before and after World War II, Waukegan was the county's premie

Waukegan was the county's premier "show town" with four theaters, the premier Genesee, the Academy, Rialto and the Times. As a theater manager, John Mitchell of the Genesee was accorded business leader status. Henry Rhyan learned the movie business in Waukegan and later established a major theater chain in northern Illinois.

Joe Emma, owner and operator of the Deerpath, was a Lake Forest and North Shore icon. His daughter, Rosemary, had the show biz bug and went on as Joan Taylor to become a movie startlet. Joe Armondo was well known as a movie house host before becoming Fox Lake mayor. Armondo turned to politics after his Towne Theater was leveled in a mysterious explosion.

The opening of the Liberty on Milwaukee Ave. in Libertyville in 1939 was a historic event. The art decco building replaced a second story theater, the LaVilla, that was reached by a creaky stairway. The Dunes in Zion played first run films into the 60s. North Chicago had the Sheridan owned by Mayor John Dromey and later the Park.

Grayslake was home for a summertime outdoor theater known by young swains and their dates as the "passion pit." The drive-in show was built by excentric millionaire Fred Dobe who was instrumental in building the Liberty. The Rhyan theater group operated the outdoor until it was razed two years ago for a supermarket.

Title for the most enduring hometown movie house in the county easily goes to Antioch where a single screen still attracts audiences after more than six decades. Is it the popcorn? The Liberty doesn't count because it was remodeled for twin screens, but the theater continues to be a viable operation after 62 years.

Round Lake Park had a single screen theater housed in a quonset building that was flattened by a tornado 35 years ago and never rebuilt. Beginning in the early 1950's, Wauconda had the Elm Theater that was operational for a number of years. Mundelein Cinema, a single screen, hung on until two years ago.

Calling all golfers

After getting rained out last Saturday, the dapper and daffy duffers competing in the annaul Chili Open Golf Tournament are going to try again at 10 a.m. Saturday, Feb. 24, at Brae Loch Golf Club, Rtc. 45. The Chili Open, which includes an all-you-can-eat chili lunch, is co-sponsored by Lakeland Newspapers and the Lake County Forest Preserve District.

Ryans galore

Political junkies are fascinated by the possibility of having three candidates named Ryan running for state office next year. There's Gov. George Ryan running for re-election (short odds on this one), Atty. Gen. Jim Ryan running for re-election (strong possibility, especially if the guv goes for a second term), and Jack Ryan running for the U.S. Senate. All are Republicans. Jack Ryan is a handsome millionaire who made so much money in the stock market he can afford to work now as a school teacher. He is a North Shore resident and single parent. His ex-wife is an actress. Sounds like he has all the qualifications to run for high office.

Illini diamond stalwarts

The always tough University of Illinois baseball team will have a strong Lake County tone this year. Back for his senior year is Jeff Gertz of Wauconda, starting catcher, who won eight letters as a prep. Among the Illini pitching candidates are Tim Gorski of Lindenhurst, a redshirt freshman who starred at Carmel High, and Reilly Smith of Lake Forest, who struck out 76 foes in 55 innings last year. Gertz is a defensive whiz with homerun power. Illinois starts the 2001 season Friday, Feb. 16, in Alabama with a series against Troy State.

Making time count

Leonard Schmitt was a person who found time to perform an amazing amount of community service besides earning a living and raising a family during his 89 years. The Fort Hill Heritage Museum and Fremont Library owe a lot to his leadership. He was an active churchman, historian and 4-H leader besides being an accomplished gardener. A restless nature drove him to make every minute of every waking moment count. He made a lasting contribution showing how to enjoy a productive retirement.

One man's family

Grandson John celebrated his birthday and treated his grandparents to a sports memory. With gram and gramps looking on, John banged home a goal, his first of the season, to help his Islanders iceless hockey game salvage a tie. A momentous moment for a young guy just turning seven.

We all know the difficulty in driving on Golf Rd. "Franzen Blvd." in Libertyville with all the new "so called" improvements. Not being able to make right turns and cars being damaged on large curb bump outs are just a few of the problems. This is a project started by Mr. Franzen, who lives on Golf Rd., to improve traffic. It took two years and thousands and thousands of tax dollars to complete. I'm very concerned this type of thinking will carry over to the township and start moving the township in a backward motion and needless spending of thousands and thousands of tax dollars on unnecessary projects.

Vasels is heading a ticket to confront the slate headed by incumbent Mayor Jim Krischke who they term as "too pro-business" at the expense of residents' rights.

Joyce R Frayer mayor of Lake Villa from 1981-1993, is out to unseat the man who succeeded her, Frank Loffredo, a teacher and popular administrator as Lake Villa celebrates its centennial.

When last serving in the early 90s, Vasels had a reputation as a hard edge, no nonsense leader. She was ousted by Krischke four years ago.

Handling remap

Atty. Robert Churchill former state representative, is making the Springfield run regularly again in the position of lead counsel to House Minority Leader Lee Daniels. In his new job, Churchill will be playing a key role in redistricting. After leaving office, Churchill served on the Illinois Prison Review Board. The Grayslake lawyer who resides in Lake Villa gave up a General Assembly seat to run for Illinois secretary of state in 1998. He was defeated in the Republican primary by Al Salvi. Due to population growth, Lake County is entitled to another House seat.

Vintage Geo

No one tops State Sen. Adeline Geo-Karls (R-Zion) for one liners and quips. Noting that Robert Ringa, an undertaker, was one of the masters of ceremonies at a black tie dinner-dance in celebration of the Village of Lake Villa centennial, Geo-Karis commented about her many years serving the community and then shot out, "Ringa, we're not ready for you."

McRae did confirm that Powell will be put on the defensive about his connection with a

Circuit Judge Raymond McKoski is exploring the possibilities of a campaign for the Appellate Court bench. A former chief judge for the Lake-McHenry County circuit, McKoski is known for "putting a face on justice" with frequent public appearances. He is a resident of Lindenhurst.

Nancy Koske, one of three candidates

Planning ahead

Bruce Hanson has decided to retire from teaching if he is successful in gaining election April 3 as supervisor of Ela Township. The long-time Zion-Benton High School history and social studies teacher is a veteran of Lake Zurich area politics. Hanson has served two terms as a township trustee and run previously unsuccessfully for supervisor. He also is a former County Board member. Hanson is known for conducting student trips to Washington, DC. The Zion-Benton group was on hand for the inauguration of President George W. Bush.

Value-priced townhomes still set sales pace

What is the bread-and butter product of the new home market across suburban Chicago? According to Town & Country Homes, one of the region's largest builders, the answer is clear — value priced townhomes.

"Despite the fact that the overall new home market is a bit softer this year than last, we've seen increased demand for our entrylevel townhome product in every community where it is offered," says Ed Fitch, executive vice president for marketing at Town & Coun-

Although all of Town & Country's townhome communities are selling well, sales of lower priced townhomes are brisk. These are townhomes that offer two bedrooms, 1 1/2 or 2 1/2 baths and a one-car or two-car garage, with starting prices ranging from $106,995 to $130,995 depending on location and features.

"Because locational and community-specific variables are so important, the motivations for buyers at each community are going to be distinct. On the other hand, we've seen some of the same trends which suggest that broader market forces are at work," Fitch says.

Among those trends:

 Young professionals (typically in their late 20s to mid-30s), both singles and couples, represent the largest group of buyers accounting for 60 to 75 percent of sales.

 Divorced single parents constitute the second largest category of buyers.

 A substantial majority of buyers — as much as 75 percent at one community — are purchasing their first home.

 Although they typically have sufficient income to afford a more expensive home, these buyers choose a Town & Country townhome because of the value offered, the attractiveness of the location and a desire to "comfortably" afford their first home.

 Buyers are particularly interested in townhomes because they want to combine the financial benefits f home ownership with the minimal maintenance responsibilities of a townhome community.

Fully landscaped townhomes remain at tope of popularity list for Lakeland area home buyers. Townhomes combine financial benefits with minimal maintenance responsibilities, two priorities for young and first-time buyers.

Modern windows combat energy loss in homes

By PATRICIA L. JOHNSON

Close your eyes and picture a 12 inch window in your head. Now imagine that the window is left open 6 inches all winter long. The end result is that a tremendous amount of cold air enters your home.

Unfortunately, unfilled gaps and cracks creating a 1/8 inch opening around two of your door frames, or around four 2 foot x 3 foot windows, will allow that same amount of cold air to enter your home.

Windows constitute a minimum of 15%-40% of the total wall area in most homes. Although they add to the appearance of a room, as well as making the outside of a house more attractive, they are one of the worse offenders of energy loss. With soaring energy costs homeowners should give some consideration to replacement windows in an effort to prevent unnecessary energy loss.

Two window specialists the Lakeland area are Ted Bierchen and Don Blackman. Ted Bierchen is the owner of Clear Care Advantage Window & Siding, Inc. in Lake Villa. Originally located in Westmont, Ted moved his business to the lake Villa area approximately seven years ago. Becoming a journeyman carpenter tin 1971, Ted is able to offer all remodeling services to his clients, but prefers a specialize in windows and siding.

Don Blackman is the owner of Laursen & Blackman Co. in Antioch. Laursen & Blackman began operation in the early 1920's. Don purchasd the business from his grandfather in 1967 after leaving college. As a civil engineer, Don is also wellqualified to offer all remodeling services to his clients but limits his services to window and door replacements.

With so many choices, it's difficult to determine which replacement window is best for your home. Windows do have R-values, which measure the degree of insulating power and range from R-1.0 to R-5.0. The higher the R-value is, the greater the insulating power. Two factors definitely increase the energy efficiency of your windows, as well as providing your home with additional sound control.

Low-E is an insulating glass, which keeps your house warmer in winter and cooler in the summer, by reducing the amount of heat, and cold that can be transferred throught the

Although Ted and Don both had showrooms for their respective businesses they both now work out of their homes and maintain storage areas for their inventory. Lower overhead results in lowered installation rates for clients. Contact Bierchen at 973-3333 or Blackman, or his daughter, Dawn Lundvall at 838-5300.

For those of you that cannot afford replacement windows at this time, Ted and Don suggest that you caulk all small openings around windows and doors that permit air flow. (Please remember that sealing your windows closed is a safety hazard and against fire regulations).

Are we raising a society of "breakable" kids?

Hi Dr. Singer,

We have read your past columns about the lack of classroom discipline in many classrooms. We see that but also have a problem of a different nature. We try as hard as we can to tell our son that he can do anything he puts his mind to. We try to create a positive outlook and we focus on the many strengths he has. Unfortunately, faculty at his school seem to want to focus only on his few weaknesses. Our son has begun to identify himself by those weaknesses. They have made his work easier and each time they make changes, they challenge him less and less. Day after day he hears about what he has problems with and it came to a "head" the other day when we asked him to do some simple task and he began quoting to us, almost word for word, things he had heard about himself at school. Labels that he could not possibly have come up with himself. He is beginning to become hardened in the fact that he has permanent flaws based on these labels. We do not believe that these problems are permanent and also believe that they can be helped without the labeling. Both my husband and I remember our school years vividly and we have no memory at all of work being made easier or kids walking around with all these labels. What has happened to our society? What's next...arm bands to announce your disability? We have read your column for years and we know that you are someone who would agree with us on this. We need to fight this for our son and need some direction. R.L.

Hi R.L.

We live in a society that seems to need to label, usually for the purpose of a quick fix. Unfortunately the kinds of "problems" that I have witnessed that are occurring in school are more about bad habits than anything else. That is what I usually see going on with learning and behavior with kids and classrooms. What is being labeled these days as "brain conditions" or permanent weaknesses that these people believe will need dependency throughout the life span are just bad habits. Bad habits that are fixable! I have been watching these labeled kids break their labels for many, many years and I am also tired of the lack of faith put into these children. If you convince somebody long enough about their weaknesses and what they cannot do, they will begin to believe it and even worse, will begin to live it. I have also had 5 year olds come in and quote the things they have heard adults tell them about themselves. When you hear a 5 year old stumble over the words "learning disability" or "sensory integration," it gives you chills you just don't get over. These kids that are supposed to have such problems are proving those problems wrong when they remember enough to say those words.

You are also right about the past. When we grew up, we were taught how to do things and then told to drill them over and over. We were not given a cakewalk. We were told to actually work. The habits that were being set up for us then were good and they represented hard work and the very things that create kids who can stay on task and finish work and be responsible for the work. We got tough because we had to do it. There was no excuse. And I think that was right. In classrooms I was in, if you forgot your homework, you did more work or there was some other punishment that happened to help you remember next time to finish the work. That was looked at as standard practice then and now it is never done. At least not with the people I work with and I work with a lot of people. You also didn't get a good grade for the irresponsible behavior of not handing something in. And it was irresponsible behavior. Now, I see kids getting to finish work that was not done, whenever they can get to it, only to get the same grade. The teachers who do that ought to be asking themselves what kind of message is that child learning about responsibility and about his or her own abilities. The teacher thinks it is compassionate. I believe it is never compassionate to allow someone comfort in failure. Nowadays, people spend their time trying to figure out ways to make it easier on the kids. They try to find ways to be integrally involved with the child's work level. either assigning someone to work with the child or doing the work for the child themselves. I've met many parents who are also guilty of this crutch type behavior. This creates a soft, breakable, dependent child who cannot make it without someone to lean on. This is frightening to me. Teach them the habits you want them to grow up with. This soft stuff certainly wouldn't be a habit I would want for my child, ever.

Don't forget, struggle done right creates fortitude and strength of character. When things come too easily, and no work or disci-'pline is used in the process, there cannot be learning. There cannot be strength. There cannot be good associations. Our kids need encouragement and positives and the knowledge that they can do what they need to. That ! they can create those great habits with enough practice. The problem with what adults do now, is that they try to be positive and they try to teach good habits, but when the kid doesn't start picking up on that instantly, the adult believes it isn't working and stops doing it. Habits take time and practice to develop. You must stick with it. Even positive self-statements take practice. I teach every kid that walks through my door, how to say, "I can do this." "I can handle this." "All this will take is practice." You would be amazed at how many of these little souls can practice those statements over and over again over a period of weeks and actually start to do better and feel better just because of that. Of course, we do much more together than that, but I am just trying to show you how important drilling of even self-statements is.

For those of you who are stuck in the, "what about the problems" place, I am not trying to say that we should ignore the weaknesses that kids have. I am just trying to say that we shouldn't focus on the problems more than anything else and that we shouldn't be fostering an identity for these kids based on their labels. If a child can tell you his or label, you've gone too far and it is time to turn back. Labeling a child for the purpose of help is one thing, but allowing that child to define him or herself by that label is a crime. Kids should know about their weaknesses as temporary conditions. A snapshot in time to be changed by working on it intensively so that the whole person becomes the identity and not just the label. So, give the help, make the child feel responsible for him or herself and drop the labels.

Many parents are beginning to think like you do. It is healthy and good for you to present to your child the idea that he or she has some things to practice and some things to get better at and that he or she will get there. Kids do not need things watered down to look easier or less scary. Kids are a lot stronger than you think they are. In fact, I would say they are stronger than many adults I have met. It just depends on how you present it to them. If you encourage and say that you know this child can beat this thing, that child will prove you right! If however, you look at that child as a sad, pathetic labeled little weak thing, guess what that child will present on an everyday basis. In fact, I will go so far as to say that I believe that many of the kids I have seen have been convinced for so long, that they are broken or damaged in some way, that they just keep doing things to fit that identity. Once I help them to see that that really isn't who they are, they take off and fly! It is amazing to see even the difference in their faces when they feel that gift that they can do more than they think.

Unfortunately, many parents have also been sucked into that negativity as well. Right now it is a societal thing. Illness in one form or another is a huge market. All one needs to do to know this is to take a look at how many commercials there are for pills that will solve all of life's woes instantly. It's no different in school these days. If we label it, we feel we can fix it faster. The problem is that the label takes away the fix. It's a total paradox.

Very importantly: not all teachers feel the same or do the same things. There are great teachers out there who feel like we do. Don't automatically assume a teacher feels this way or does this. Weigh each person's actions individually.

Here are some suggestions for you. I can appreciate the fact that you want to fight this for your son, but the fight may not work, may not get through and may be a waste of time for you. You may want to try other avenues instead, to meet your needs. You didn't say whether you are in public or private school. If in public, you may want to check out the private schools around your area. Sometimes they are a better fit for kids. Secondly, I cannot give you direct advice in the scope of this column about how to reverse the identity problem your child has been developing. If you want to work on changing that, call me again for the purpose of setting up an in-person meeting so I can give you more direct advice about that. Third, whether you consult me or not, keep up your positive outlook and keep telling this child how great he is and how much he is capable of. Keep countering the other information and at least, it will make him question the other things he hears. You are great parents! Keep up the good

LICULULUL hearingtips

Hearing loss affects 28 million Americans both young and old, ranging from mild impairment to profound deafness. This can be especially challenging when entertaining because not everyone who enters our front door, or is seated next to us at a party, may have perfect hearing.

"We live in a loud world and it is inevitable that we or someone we love, will have some hearing loss," said Kathy Landau Goodman, Audiology Awareness Campaign President and Chairman of the Board of Directors.

The stress and excitement of gatherings can affect those with hearing impairments more than others. Following are 10 tips to ensure guests have a good time and conversations flow more smoothly:

· When speaking to someone who can't hear well, face the person directly so that he or she can read your lips, and take cues from your facial expressions and body language.

· Speak slowly and clearly. Avoid exaggerated lip movements and shouting.

· Make sure you have the person's attention before starting to talk. A gentle tap on the shoulder or raising of a finger can signal that you are going to speak.

 Do not obscure your face and mouth with your hands or other distractions (eating or smoking for example).

• If you are asked to repeat yourself several times, try rephrasing your sentence instead of becoming frustrated. Some words may "look" the same to those who are reading

· Beware of the environment. Large, crowded rooms can be very difficult for hearing impaired persons. Turn off the television, radio and reduce other background noise. Bright lights and shadows may also present barriers.

 Get to know about the person and his or her interests the same way you would with anyone else. The range of interests you share may surprise you.

• If you sense someone is not following the conversation, offer to clarify or explain

 There is a wide range of hearing losses and communication methods. If you don't know the individual's preferred method or don't know what to do to help, please ask.

Hearing loss is often painless, develops slowly and worsens with age. Some physical warning signs include ringing in the ear(s), muffled speech sounds or the inability to hear a speaker three feet away after leaving a noisy area.

Basin sold for back taxes

An inquiry is being conducted into how the Lake County Treasurer sold for back taxes a stormwater retention basin in a Grant Township subdivision.

The sale was discovered when residents of Oakwood Subdivision contacted county building department officials how to get their streets approved for snowplowing in the 12year-old subdivision of 50 homes.

Grant Township Highway Com. Jack Kiesgen said Oakwood can't be included in the township maintenance program because narrow streets don't comply with state requirements.

The subdivision was developed in the late 1980's by Joe Cotton of Cotton Construction Co., Island Lake. Cotton was required to provide adequate storm drainage. He identified two lots in the subdivision for water retention. Property deeds stipulated that homeowners were required to maintain the basin.

esi-

"It floors me how the lots were sold," a resident exclaimed at a meeting of Grant Township trustees.

Assessor Betty Niemi noted that property like a retention basin is assessed at a penny per square foot "so the sale wouldn't involve a lot of money." With the basin in private hands, another Oakwood resident wondered about the ownership of streets.

Township officials are arranging for a county official to attend a township meeting Feb. 20 to shed more light on the lot sale and ownership of subdivision streets.

Reduce risk of chimney fires.

The production of creosote is one of the major problems associated with wood burning. Changing to a new wood stove can reduce the amount of creosote generated and can reduce the risk of chimney fires substancially.

College of Lake County Sports Roundup

Late-season surge continues for Lancers

By STEVE PETERSON Staff Reporter

Aaron Coleman knows much about how to handle delays in a basketball game.

"My senior year at Warren, a fire alarm was pulled at a Thanksgiving tournament game and Waukegan went on to win," Coleman recalled.

This time, the College of Lake County player was not about to let a 10-minute delay to clean up blood on the court bother him or his team. The short-handed but team on the rise Lancers held off Harner 83-

Lancers held off Harper 83-77. Coleman, a sophomore, scored 25 points to lead the home team to its 10th win.

"We have a lot of unselfish players. We work on boxing out on rebounds," Coleman, 6-2, said. "My favorite move is to give them a pump fake."

Ricky Higgins, another Warren product, tallied 17 and three-point specialist Jim Nilles had 15.

"We worked hard as a team — that is all that matters. At the beginning of the season, we were not winning, but now we are third in the Skyway Conference," Higgins said.

Fans have a couple of more chances to see CLC's up-and-coming 10-16 men's team. The Lancers host Moraine Valley Feb. 20 and Elgin Feb. 22.

On a foggy Thursday, CLC trailed 36-34 at halftime and the first few minutes of the second half were back-and-forth. Harper (4-22) opened up a 57-50 lead eight minutes into the second half.

CLC went on a 24-9 run, holding Harper to one shot. A tip-in by Coleman, one of nine rebounds, gave CLC the lead for good at 64-63.

Coleman posted a much taller player back for another hoop and Andy Yarc (10 points) hit a three-pointer for a 71-64 lead. Nilles capped the run with a trey with 5:20 left and Aaron Gallego, just inserted into the lineup, hit two free throws for the largest CLC lead at 76-66.

After the delay, a Coleman hoop and 3-of—6 free throws helped pull out the win.

"I told the guys at halftime we needed to pick it up defensively, rebound and get into the passing lanes. It is all the guys' hard work - they are putting in the time. We try to motivate them and come up with a good game plan," said CLC coach Rob Sandler.

CLC is 10-16 overall, 4-4 Skyway. The Lancers have now won four straight games.

Jimichael Slaby, from Round Lake, had a strong game, with 13 points.

Sandler commented on the top two scorers for the Lancers, 10-16.

"Coleman is 6-2 and uses a big frame against bigger opponents," Sandler said.

Galancers!!

"Ricky comes to play every night. He is such a smart defender. We also had contributions from Chris Gotsch and Aaron Gallego. Gotsch has a great work ethic," Sandler said. "Practices are so competitive. The guys are mentally ready in the second half."

Lady Lancers struggle

College of Lake County's women's basketball coach Bill Braman was optimistic about his team's chances at halftime.

The Lancers had stayed within 10 points of Harper until a late surge put the visiting Hawks ahead by 41-29 at intermission. CLC had a similar second half, but Harper dominated, 44-28, and cruised to an easy 85-57 win.

"I thought we were still in it," Braman said of halftime.

But injuries and fouls caught up with CLC in their quest for their third win. Jessica Gutierrez, a sophomore from Mundelein, led the Lancers with 17 points. Stacie Peterson, a freshman from Round Lake, had 14 and Stephanie Cripps tallied 10. Stacey Hasemann of Wauconda chipped in with 7 points.

Braman commented on some of his most consistent players Kristen Pagano, a point guard and Gutierrez, both former Mustangs.

"Kristen has had an outstanding season. She is a fine point guard. She is a catalyst in three ways: offense, defense and scoring. Each game is better than the one before. Gutierrez has had a good year," he said.

CLC (2-24) trailed 34-28 before Harper, who went to the free-throw line 31 times in the first half, pulled away. A 13-1 run and a strong start to the second half saw the lead grow to 20 points. Harper finished with a 22-12 edge in free throws.

CLC's regional game is Feb. 27.

Men's Basketball

The Lancers avenged an earlier loss to Oakton after a 69-63 win that pulled CLC (9-16, 4-4 Skyway) to the .500 mark in conference due to three straight conference wins.

Aaron Coleman led the Lancers with 18 points, 10 rebounds, four assists and three steals. Rickey Higgins scored 15 points, had five steals and dished out two assists, Jimichael Slaby had 15 points, two rebounds, two assists and two steals and Jim Nilles chipped in with 12 points, five rebounds, one assist and one steal.

CLC lead start to finish and scored their last 10 points on free throws as they went 17-21 for the game.

Women's Basketball

Poor shooting from the field (26 percent) did in the Lady Lancers in a 54-42 loss to Oakton.

CLC was led by Stacie Peterson's 13 points. Stephanie Cripps added 12 points for the Lady Lancers (2-23, 0-8 Skyway).—Rob Backus contributed to this report.
